the late National and State elections, as only an additional incentive to every sincere lover of his country and its institutions, to look more closely than ever, late the administration of public affairs by the people's servants. It will be the province of The American to approve right and denounce error as heretofore, and to give the people such information as will lead them to covered conclusions. The fact it will give people such information as will lead them to correct conclusions. The facts it will give will be without bias, upon which its readers can form their own opinions. Time and the recurrence of popular elections, show that a very large portion of the voters of the Union act from the impulse of the moment, rather than from settled convictions in regard to correct principles of government. Hence the greater necessity for the use of public journals to obtain juster and more settled views on governmental questions. This, The American will endeavor with the utmost pains, to supply.

The American will continue the well-known and highly appreciated extensive volume of general news, State and National, and will strive to deserve what it already enjoys, the same of being the best newspaper south of the Ohlo river, regardless of politics or location.

Making Butter in Cold Weather Strain the milk into pans that have been previously rinsed in hot water; put it on the stove for a few ninutes; then remove it to the place in which you usually keep it. See that it is not too cold. The next day put it on the stovengain, make it very warm, return it as before not of dress. I mean my maiden Skim it into an earthern bowl, pon off the thin cream that will natural ly fall on the sides; stir every day the third day stir it with your hand A moment of thought, of convat- or butter ladle; when nearly done pour in the thin cream by degrees with the former, pour some boil ing water on some bran, rub your hand well with it, then rinse. There are some cows that will naturally make frothy cream, and should be disposed of. The way to try them is to strain the milk into separate bowls, skim and stir with a spoon.

Efforts are being made in New York to raise funds to purchase food, fuel and clothes, wherewith to relieve the dire straites into which these unfortunate blacks have been forced by the cold weather and the colder hearts of their northern friends. Without desiring to intermeddle in a matter with which we have nothing to do-conceiving it to be the duty of those who seduced these poor people from comfortable homes to provide for them—it is suggested that the most efficient manner of relieving this distress would be to furnish the negroes with funds to return to their homes in at least as is no danger of their becoming objects of charity here .- Memphis
